A man outwardly controlled and inwardly nervous. Power hungry and opportunistic. His desires for power, as a means to enforce order, stretch far beyond the City. The Lord Regent believes he is someone committed to protecting and ensuring The City's future: He blames the City's problems on the old Empress and on the laziness and disorder of the common people. Gnawed by guilt over his secret "Poverty Eradication Plan," wherein he imported feral rats from the Continent as a means of encouraging the poor to improve their lives, to drive them all to escape the slums. The plan went wildly awry and created the Rat Plague.

Regent

It is with great regret that I continue my temporary role as Lord Regent, guiding the city until this time of plague and rebellion has passed. In this capacity I hereby condemn you. Let the sentence be carried out.

Regent

I truly don't know who you are or why you came here, but you've given me the power to cleanse this island. And for that I thank you.

Regent

What's that I see? Disappointment? Your killing spree yesterday got our attention. The two men who brought you that bomb are dying right now.
